4. WRITING ASSIGNMENTS:

Title 5, section 55002 requires grades to be “based on demonstrated proficiency in subject matter and the ability to demonstrate that proficiency, at least in part, by means of essays or, in courses where the curriculum committee deems them to be appropriate, by problem solving exercises or skills demonstrations by students.” Writing assignments in this course may include, but are not limited to the following:

1. Students are assigned 8 assignments that are to be presented before the class during the semester. The focus will be directed to various acting exercises during the week. Each exercise requires a typed-written analysis of the work stating specifically how it is to be presented and objective associated with the presentation. The student is also obligated to identify on paper the dramatic structure of all monologues/dialogues associated with the presentation.
2. Written critiques are to be turned in periodically demonstrating knowledge of the work presented by other students in the class.
3. Two characters have to be researched and developed, detailing how the particular characters have been developed through research.
4. Two written play critiques on a live production will be handed in detailing the quality of the performance, and the talent and creativity associated with the actor’s performance in the play.

5. REPRESENTATIVE OUTSIDE ASSIGNMENTS:
Out of class assignments may include, but are not limited to the following:

Viewing public performances of plays that would require an oral and written critiqued due at the next class meeting.

6. REPRESENTATIVE ASSIGNMENTS THAT DEMONSTRATE CRITICAL THINKING:

Title 5, section 55002(a) requires that a degree-applicable course have a level of rigor that includes "critical thinking and the understanding and application of concepts determined by the curriculum committee to be at college level”. Critical thinking may include, but is not limited to analysis, synthesis, and evaluation. Provide examples of assignments that demonstrate critical thinking.

The work of the class requires that the student demonstrate his awareness and understanding of the concepts presented through lectures/demonstration and handout materials by presenting assigned monologues and scenes for research, development and presentation. Oral and written criticism responding to the presentation will help demonstrate the student’s ability at being able to work independently at home, as well as, with others in a rehearsal or improvisational environment. Quizzes will demonstrate the students understanding of handout materials, i.e. terms, acting styles, etc.
7. METHODS OF EVALUATION:

Title 5, section 55002 requires grades to be “based on demonstrated proficiency in subject matter and the ability to demonstrate that proficiency, at least in part, by means of essays, or, in courses where the curriculum committee deems them to be appropriate, by problem solving exercises or skills demonstrations by students.” Methods of evaluation may include, but are not limited to the following (please note that evaluation should measure the outcomes detailed “Course Objectives” at the beginning of Section II):

Evaluation will be based on student's ability to present a monologue and scene; critique a production and prepare and define a character for research and development. The student's ability will be assessed through a quizzes, written assignments, a written final, and a final performance of a monologue or scene.

8. METHODS OF INSTRUCTION:

SAM Codes (see CCC Chancellor’s Office Student Accountability Model Operations Manual, 1984) should be assigned as follows:

Priority "A" -- Apprenticeship: Courses designed for an indentured apprentice must have the approval of the State of California, Department of Industrial Relations Department, Division of Apprenticeship Standards.

Priority "B" – Advanced Occupational: Courses taken by students in the advanced stages of their occupational programs. Courses should be offered in one specific occupational area only. Priority letter "B" should be assigned sparingly; in most cases, no more than two courses in any one program should be labeled "B." "B"-level courses must have Priority "C" prerequisites in the same program area.

Priority "C" – Clearly Occupational: Courses generally taken by students in the middle stages of their programs should have a difficulty level sufficient to detract "drop-ins." Courses may be offered in several occupational programs within a broad area. The "C" priority, however, should also be used for courses within a specific program area when the criteria for "B" classification are not met. A "C"-level course should provide the student with entry-level job skills.

Priority "D" -- Possibly Occupational: “D" courses are those taken by students in the beginning stages of their occupational programs. The "D" priority can also be used for service (or survey) courses for other occupational programs.

Priority "E" -- Non-occupational.
